From its beginnings in the local church building, the school has steadily grown and today has 163 pupils. There are two pre-school classes and five primary classes up to Grade 5. The goal of the management team is to expand the school, year by year, until they realise a full primary/elementary school status. There are nine qualified teachers. The leadership have shown real initiative in overseeing progress in this school development and we are pleased to have the opportunity of working with them on a programme that will transform the possibilities for the lives of those who are scholars there.

There is a clear link between the local church and the school which brings a spiritual dimension to the education process.

Patrick, with his wife Carolyne, established this school in 2013. Patrick is one of the key church leaders among the Brethren churches in Kenya and is the director of the project. Carolyne is the head teacher and has qualifications in both education and business management. This young couple have a vision to improve the prospects of the children in their community with the church and the school working together to this end.
